WHEELING, OCTOBER 8, 1891.

Charles Stewart Parnell.

Until he fell by his own act, fell from the respect of right-thinking men, fell from the power which his genius and earnestness had given him, Charles Stewart Parnell was one of the foremost men of his time. He was known the world over as the valiant champion of a cause that appealed to every heart, to which he was devoting his life with all the marvelous energy God had given him.

There was something sublime in the spectacle of a man scarcely more than thirty years of age organizing a party that soon mustered eighty-five votes in the British House of Commons, leading his forces with consummate skill, making himself the balance of power in that staid legislative body, as much feared as hated by the Government, forcing concessions from an obdurate press and public opinion, driving the Tory Government into measures for the relief of Ireland, keeping his people stirred up to a resistance against unjust laws that narrowly skirted the danger line of open rebellion.

Never an Irishman before him showed such capacity for leadership. Not one of the earlier Irish patriots was so happily circumstanced as Parnell. Well-born, of strong native intelligence, well educated, a gentleman up to the English requirements, he commanded the support of the well-born, the intelligent men and women of social position. The champion of the people of his country, he commanded the love, veneration and obedience of more Irishmen at home and abroad than ever before flocked to the standard of any Irish leader.

Fortunately for the Irish cause, when it was said that the voice of discontent came up from Catholic Ireland only, that the Catholics were in revolt and aiming to ride rough-shod over Protestant Ireland, the sufficient answer was found in Parnell the Protestant, leader of the oppressed of all Ireland. If Parnell had been the pope he could not have had from the Roman Catholic clergy of Ireland more cordial co-operation and support.

Until the name of O'Shea began to be coupled with that of Parnell his name and the cause of Ireland were as one. From the moment the light was turned on his private life his public career was ended. Since then his troubled days and nights have been given up to a mad attempt to regain the standing and the power which he had idly thrown away.

We must do him the justice to believe he thought he could still be useful to his country, not appreciating how high his personality had been held, how great his fall, how irreconcilable was the paramour with the chaste and stern ideal of the Irish leader enshrined in every Irish heart. Circumstances had changed with the woful change in the man, and he could not change them back. He was dead politically, and by his own hand.

All that he could have asked in his last moments was, that history shall draw the veil over the weakness of the man and permit the leader to stand on the pedestal upon which his people placed him when he was striking blows for Ireland that waked responsive echoes in the heart of civilization.

Who would have believed that the time could ever come when it could be said with truth that the death of Charles Stewart Parnell was a blessing to Ireland. Even so it is. Without power to help, he retained just the hold enough to divide and obstruct. It is sad to say of such a man that after all he was to Ireland he leaves no place to fill.

The Terminal Company Hits Back.
President Cochran, of the Bridge & Terminal Company, makes a direct and sharp reply to the recent communication of the Wheeling & Lake Erie. He releases some history which is not too ancient to be of very great present interest.

With this recital of facts as a background the present filibustering attitude of the Wheeling & Lake Erie stands out in bold relief. Having failed to prevent the construction of the bridge and terminal system, as a neutral line, the obstructive tactics are to be continued with a view to prevent the independent operation of the system.

If the Bridge & Terminal Company can be hit on the head—there stands the Wheeling & Lake Erie at the Ohio end to take in the wreck. This would not be advantageous to Ohio county as a large stockholder nor to the people of Ohio county as shippers, but up to this time nobody connected with the Wheeling & Lake Erie management has shown any friendly interest in this community.

Judge Cochran says the Wheeling &

Lake Erie asked a rate of $1.50 per car and wanted it made a private rate, so that it might have this advantage over any and all other roads desiring to use the terminal system. This obviously would be to defeat the neutrality of the system, to violate the spirit and the letter of the contract with Ohio county and to bring the Bridge & Terminal Company in conflict with the interstate commerce law to the penal tune of $5,000.

This demand having been refused, the Wheeling & Lake Erie complains that it cannot get a shipping rate over the terminal system. The INTELLIGENCER thinks the public will agree with Judge Cochran in the comments he makes on this demand and the spirit which moved the Wheeling & Lake Erie to make it.

Be Careful of the Elevator.

The man who runs the elevator in which the Rev. Dr. Benedict was crushed to death, says the machine was in the habit of starting off with a rush when it has been brought to a stop to let a passenger on or off. If this is true the owner of the building must have had it reported to him; in which case the responsibility is easily located.

The sad event is a reminder that the elevator, great a convenience as it is, has great capacity for mischief. Accidents are so few comparatively that in the rush of business men do not take time to be careful. They rush in or out before the lift comes to a full stop. Most of them escape, but now and then somebody is caught in the trap. In the Cincinnati case the fault seems to have been with the elevator, which could not be controlled.

Mr. HERMAN OELRICHS was New York's member of the National Democratic Committee. He isn't any more. He says that since he was chosen to represent the Democratic party Tammany has become the Democratic party and he is out of joint. "Being a Democrat, as the term was understood and interpreted by the late Samuel J. Tilden, I resign." Haven't we a right to imagine that Flower is blooming mad? The blow is a regular rib-roaster.

A good street car service would be very convenient to persons living in the extremes of this long and narrow-waisted city. It would be profitable to the merchants, who are out of pocket by the sort of service—almost no service—rendered by the company that can pay dividends and has to hold its ears together with any piece of old lumber that may be lying around the barn.

It is not surprising that the people approve the INTELLIGENCER's comment on the street car service. The INTELLIGENCER has only reflected the strong public sentiment. It is not in human nature to be pleased with the kind of treatment the people of Wheeling get from the street car company.

Hox. ROSWELL G. HOER, who did some good stumping in Ohio, says that McKinley's majority cannot be less than 20,000. That will be enough to give Governor Campbell all the time he may need to attend to his job lot of libel suits.

McKINLEY will have a rousing reception when he comes to speak on the border. West Virginia will invade Ohio and help to make the occasion memorable. West Virginia Republicans are solid on the McKinley question.

It is missing a great deal not to be at Ada today to see McKinley grind Campbell to powder and blow the remains to the four winds. Campbell is a nice man, but he isn't strong enough to stand up before McKinley.

Mr. PARNELL's physicians refuse to make any statement of his case. Their silence will give some color to the suspicion that he may have followed the example of Balmaceda and Boulanger.

Mr. CLEVELAND knows who is boss of the Democratic party in New York, and so he takes off his cap to Tammany. Isn't the Mugwump cup full to overflowing?

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

The recent advocacy by some of the use of atmospheric air as fuel is pronounced one of the most remarkable results of modern experiment with one of the essential elements of the universe. As is well understood, air is mixed with coal gas and with hydrocarbon vapors and the compound when burned generates a much greater heat than if the air was absent. The new fuel, however, is the air itself, which in a powerful blast is directed upon an incandescent substance—say, coal made white hot, pure carbon, or any other materials that can be made to glow.

Instead of being turned to the desired size by sharp-cutting instruments, as in ordinary machines for turning wood and metal, granite is now turned or ground away in the production of columns by the wedge-like action of rather thick steel disks, rotated by the pressure of the stone as it slowly turns in the lathe; the disks, which are six or eight inches in diameter, are set at quite an angle to the stone and move with an automatic carriage along the lathe bed.

The statement is made by an English journal that wrought iron or steel pipes can be produced at a less cost per unit of length than cast iron pipes, and a pipe built of steel can be made at a less cost of labor than one of wrought iron, on account of the reduction in the number of plates and rivets and, therefore, of cutting and punching. Being also less liable to corrosion than pipes of wrought or cast iron, the durability of steel is assured.

An Indian in North Dakota who recently received a large sum of money determined to put on a style befitting his changed condition of life. With this idea he invested $300 or $400 of his money in a license, which some lively stable keeper made him believe was just the thing for a family carriage. With a pair of big-bellied ponies to draw it he is perfectly happy driving about perched on the seat and his quavering papposes squatting inside.

Ten years ago Bernard Forst was clerk in a men's furnishing goods store in Bradford, Pa. He dabbled in oil speculation, gave himself up to it, threw aside his legitimate business and is to-day a millionaire. Forst is one of the owners of the new "McDonald gusher," which produces, it is said, $1,500 worth of oil a day.

The princes of India are still able to indulge in royal whims and extravagances. One of them recently had made at Paris a bed worth $5,000. Its canopy is supported by four automatic female figures that wave fans to cool the air. The mattress is a huge musical box, which, when one lies upon it, plays operatic airs.

It is said that Col. Hyde sank about $50,000 in his recent newspaper venture at St. Joseph, Mo. His press cost $18,500 and after the failure it was sold to a New York paper for $10,000 less. Other fixtures were sacrificed at corresponding rates.

A pint of whisky was divided up in the following manner between the members of an Indian family at Atchinson the other day: The noble brave drank the whisky, the squaw got the bottle and the pappoose came in for the cork.

Ex-Gov. Houser, of Montana, began life as a surveyor of the Missouri Pacific railroad. He emigrated to Last Chance gulch, where Helena now stands, and got a job to turn the windlass of a mine hoist. Now he's a millionaire.

A pair of boots, a slouch hat, a linen duster and no shirt, found recently in the lonely woods, induced an ignorant coroner's jury to return a verdict that "the deceased was an editor who was murdered for his money!"

Don Carlos, pretender to the throne of Spain, who is living at the present time in Venice, is said to be badly in need of money. He was obliged, according to reports, to pawn his jewels a short time ago.

Aluminum is taking the place of magnesium in flash lights for photography. The mixture consists of powdered aluminum and chlorate of potassium, which gives a brilliant flash with but little smoke.

The recent losses by fire in the cargo of ships carrying cotton has shown that cottonseed oil, when held in the cotton on the outside of the bale, rapidly oxidizes and generates spontaneous combustion.

From recent investigations made in the Pennsylvania University Veterinary school it was shown that the chief cause of consumption came from the use of the milk and flesh of tuberculous cattle.

The new system of transmitting power by means of compressed air, which was recently tried in Offenbach, showed a loss but 13 per cent in the daily output.

It is claimed that the Eiffel tower in Paris attracts so much electricity as to cause great cloudiness and an increased amount of rain in that vicinity.

Painted windows were photographed in their original colors recently by a Swiss doctor who has devoted long study to this subject.

ARMY OF TENNESSEE.

Movement Started for a Monument to General Sherman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The society of the army of Tennessee, of which the late General W. T. Sherman was so long president, met here to-day. In calling the meeting to order Col. James A. Sexton, vice-president of the society, referred feelingly to the death of the old hero. Subsequently, on motion of Gen. Granville M. Dodge, of New York, who is generally spoken of as General Sherman's successor, the following were appointed to solicit subscriptions for a monument to the memory of their late distinguished comrade: Gen. G. M. Dodge, Col. J. F. Howe, Col. N. D. Leggett, Gen. G. B. Raum and Gen. A. Hickenlooper. The place at which the monument is to be erected is left open. The society as a body subscribed $500 toward the memorial.

MARTINSBURG'S BOOM.

The Improvement Company Holds an Important Meeting.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 7.—The Martinsburg boom is still on and the outlook is still encouraging.

An important and largely attended meeting of the Martinsburg Manufacturing and Improvement Company was held at the company's office to-day. At this meeting it was decided that the sale of lots should take place on the thirtieth and thirty-first of October. Judging from the inquiries that have been made about the sale, there will be a good many purchasers present. On the day previous to the sale, October 29, there will be a meeting of the stockholders, to conclude with a banquet in the evening. A large number of people from outside the city will be present on that occasion as the guests of the improvement company.

Miss Betty Wiltshire declared her willingness to expend $5,000 in the erection of a building suitable for a Baptist school, provided the company would donate a lot that was conveniently located for the purpose.

State Board of Agriculture.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 7.—The State Board of Agriculture and the Agricultural Committee of the Board of Regents held a joint session here last night, the meeting lasting till a late hour this morning. The object of the meeting was to arrange for the cementing of the Board of Agriculture and the Experiment Station. The committee of the Board of Regents has adjourned but the Board of Agriculture is still in session.

SUPERINTENDENT GUYSI KILLED.

At the Raymond City Mines—A Peculiarly Fatal Accident.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 7.—The heart of many an elder Cincinnati was made sad to-day to hear of the death of Mr. George W. Guysi, superintendent of the Raymond City, W. Va., coal mines, controlled by the Marmet Coal Company, of this city. Mr. Guysi has held the position with the company since 1880, and with him were his two sons, who worked under his direction for the same concern. The first that was known of the accident came in the shape of a dispatch at a late hour yesterday afternoon, to the office of the company here. It was brief, and simply stated that Mr. Guysi had been injured by being caught in the cage as it was being drawn into the mine. Later came another, brief and sad, detailing that he had died of the injuries received and that the remains would be shipped at once to his home here for interment.

Mr. Marmet was found at his residence, 332 West Fourth street, at a late hour last evening, and said that they were almost in the dark as to the details of the catastrophe. The telegram of information, however, had revealed that he was caught between the cage and the wall of the tunnel as the former was being drawn into the mine, and had been so badly crushed that death resulted in less than two hours.

It was a tunnel mine, so that he was not down in the shaft, as might have been the case. When resident here, Mr. Guysi lived with his family, consisting of the wife, two daughters and two sons, in a handsome home on Forest avenue, Avondale. The house was destroyed by fire a few years ago, and thereafter the family removed to Charleston, W. Va. Their prospects improved, and the mother and daughters were sent away to give the girls an opportunity to improve their predilection for art. They went to Paris, where they are now residing, and where the elder daughter, Miss Alice, has won some enviable distinction by her work with the brush, she having gained entrance to the Salon.

THE STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, OHIO COUNTY, IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF OHIO COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA.

October Rules, 1891.

Daniel W. Harrison

The Fraternity of Financial Co-operation.

The object of this suit is to recover by decree of the above named court the sum of $1,331, with interest thereon from the 29th of October, 1890, until payment, for money fraudulently obtained by the defendant from sundry persons named in an exhibit of the bill filed in this cause, who are assignees of the plaintiff, and who are members of local Division No. 28 of said Fraternity in the City of Cleveland, in the State of Ohio, and to subject to the payment and satisfaction of the said $1,331, interest and costs, money of the defendant in the custody of the Exchange Bank of Wheeling, which have been attached under order of attachment issued herein. And it appearing from an affidavit filed in said cause at these rules, that the defendant is not a resident of the State of West Virginia, and it not having been served with process herein, on motion of the plaintiff, it is ordered that publication be ordered against it, and it is ordered that the said defendant do appear within one
